Barbara Giannetti

Co-Founder and Co-Chairman

Barbara's biscotti recipe – passed down through four generations of her Italian family – launched the business in 1994, then known as Biscotti di Barbara. The success of the biscotti led to the pair's next venture – the da Giulia line of pasta sauces.

Through the years she has earned extensive experience in specialty food product development and marketing. Barbara oversees Here's to the Cook!'s sales, while also developing new products.

Barbara holds a B.A. from the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Sandra Hartman

Co-Founder and Co-Chairman

Sandra teamed with her longtime friend Barbara to found Biscotti di Barbara in 1994. Sandra's business savvy was the perfect complement to Barbara's creativity.

Over the years, Sandra has amassed a wealth of experience in creating new specialty foods and innovative meals. Sandra focuses on developing new products for Here's to the Cook! and oversees the company's operations.

Sandra holds a B.S. in finance from the University of Northern Illinois and is completing work on her culinary degree at the Kendall College School of Culinary Arts.
